

KPC Commences Line Repairs Following Oil Spill

Friday, August 10, 2018 ... Kenya Pipeline Company's emergency team has commenced repairs on its Sinendet-Kisumu pipeline following an oil spillage in Kisumu's Kibos area occasioned by a suspected siphoning of fuel by a rogue trader.

Following the leak that was discovered today at around 1.00pm, the pipeline popularly referred to as Line 6 was immediately isolated to enable the repairs to kick off. The company's safety and environment team have also taken over the site to prevent the product from spreading further.

We urge the residents who are in close proximity to the leak area to immediately move to safer areas to enable KPC undertake the repairs to minimize danger.

We will work closely with the police and other relevant arms of government to ensure that the culprits of this dreadful act are arrested and brought to book.

We assure all our customers and Kenyans at large that this incident does not affect our stock levels. We have sufficient stocks for all the grades across our depots countrywide.

We will continue to share regular updates with regard to this incident.

Joe Sang

KPC Managing Director